About the Conductor

Ann Howard Jones is Director of Choral Activities at the University of Illinois in Urbana-Champaign, where she teaches the masters and doctoral choral conducting seminar and conducts the University of Illinois Chorale, an ensemble of graduate students in the School of Music. Dr. Jones is also Assistant Director of Choruses of the Atlanta Symphony Orchestra, where she works closely with Robert Shaw in preparation of both the large chorus and the chamber chorus. She is a member of the alto section of both groups and appeared with them in the summer of 1988 when ASO made its debut foreign tour to Berlin, Zurich, Ludwigsburg, Paris, Bristol and London.

A student of Daniel Moe and Don Moses, Dr. Jones has bachelors, masters, and doctorate from the University of Iowa. She began her teaching career in southern California and has spent the past fifteen years in colleges and universities in Georgia and Iowa before assuming her position at the University of Illinois in the fall of 1988.

Dr. Jones was awarded the Fulbright Senior Lectureship to Brazil in 1984, where she consulted in the development of a university choral program and taught choral and vocal pedagogy. During that time, she was invited to conduct amateur choruses all over the country and to present workshops in her fields of specialization.

She is in constant demand as a guest lecturer and guest conductor because of her acknowledged expertise in choral conducting, methods and materials, and vocal techniques. She is also highly sought after as a guest conductor of festival choirs, all-state choirs, and music camps in the United States, Europe, the Near East, and South America. Her association with Robert Shaw included a position on the staff of the Robert Shaw Institute's first summer program in southwestern France in 1988.

Dr. Jones is a member of the International Federation of Choral Music and she was one of 250 conductors from around the world who attended the First World Symposium on Choral Music held in Vienna, Austria in August, 1987. She is Past President of Georgia ACDA and is a member of NATS, MENC, GMEA, and numerous other professional organizations. She and groups she has conducted have been invited to appear for conventions of the ACDA, GMEA, MENC, and AGO. She holds a life membership in the American Choral Directors Association.
